Zintak comes to JDA Software with more than 17 years of enterprise software sales and sales management experience. Most recently he served as the executive vice president of sales at HCL Axon, where he was responsible for the large enterprise sales and marketing organization focusing on delivering transformational solutions in multiple verticals, including retail and manufacturing. Zintak has also served in senior-level software sales executive and management roles at Capgemini (News - Alert), SAP and Blue Martini Software.

"We are pleased to welcome Jason to JDA Software's executive management team," said Hamish Brewer, chief executive officer, JDA Software. "Jason brings to JDA a stellar track record of developing, implementing and executing sales growth strategies, and consistently improving the performance of the sales organizations that he has managed. He knows what it takes to bring an organization to the next level, and will bring that experience to JDA's worldwide sales teams." "I am thrilled to join JDA Software at this time. While the company's software sales performance has been solid, I am confident that my experience will help contribute to increased performance of the Company's software license sales," Zintak said. "I look forward to working with the Company's leadership team and organization, and supporting its growth and profitability objectives through further increasing the level of performance of its software sales and marketing organizations worldwide." JDA is further announcing today that its Chief Operating Officer, Chris Koziol, will be leaving the company, effective immediately, to pursue other opportunities. "On behalf of JDA, I would like to thank Chris for his service to the company, and wish him the best of luck in his future endeavors," stated Brewer.
